Nobel Prize Goes To Pair

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1969 Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine was awarded jointly today to German-born Max Delbrueck of the California Institute of Technology, Alfred D. Hershey of the Carnegie Institute, and Salvador E. Luria of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The American trio of bacteriologists were honored for their discoveries concerning the replication mechanism and the genetic structure of viruses, the faculty of the Caroline Institute said.

The Nobel Prize this year carries a record cash amount of $75,000. Money for the prizes comes from the will of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite. Other prizes to come: for literature Oct. 23; for economics, a new award, Oct. 27; for physics and chemistry, Oct. 30. The Nobel Peace Prize award is made in Oslo.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the world's most coveted medical distinction has gone to the United States. Delbrueck, 63, was born in Berlin, educated at Goettingen and went to the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena on a Rockefeller grant in 1937. He became professor of biology there in 1947.

Salvador Luria was born in Turin, Italy, in 1912. He went to the United States as a research assistant at Columbia University in New York in 1940 and has been professor of microbiology at MIT since 1959.

Alfred D. Hershey, 60, was born in Lansing, Mich., and went to the Carnegie Institution in 1950.

There are parade announcers at just about every corner this year. Manning the platforms are Millard Dern, Stan Stevens, Jim Shea, Kelly and Terry Agin, Thoburn Blaney, Elvin Lewis, Charles Carle, Larry Lane, Jack Mader and Frank Barnhill.

In 1950 a single platform with one announcer described the scene. Today 12 announcers are stationed at six strategic points along the parade route.

Terry Agin and Frank Barnhill were the envy of every young man watching the queen contest Wednesday night. It was their duty to escort the contestants around the West Main St. platform for the judging.

a gourmet has to plan an itinerary well in advance. There's just not enough room in the average stomach for a fish sandwich at the Legion, K of C or Bennet's booth, a sausage sandwich at Kiwanis or Logan Elm booth, a hamburger at Westfall or Teays Valley, a bowl of chili or chicken noodle soup and a hot chicken sandwich at the Hedges Chapel booth, a pumpkinburger at the DECA booth, a hotdog at the Stooze booth and a swiss cheese on a soft German pretzel all in one trip. House Group Backs Draft Lottery Plan

19-Year-Olds Would Go First After Drawing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee that has shown little enthusiasm for President Nixon's lottery draft plan has indicated it will back the administration's idea of calling up 19-year-olds first.

Members of the special Armed Services subcommittee would give no details before sending recommendations to the lottery proposal to the full committee today.

But one source told a newsman, "You can quote the first paragraph of the President's list of priorities if you want to."

Nixon's first item called for a youngest-first draft call order "so that a young man would become less vulnerable rather than more vulnerable to the draft as he grows older."

Opponents of the lottery idea said Nixon already could carry out a youngest-first system without new legislation.

During five days of hearings, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey told the subcommittee the lottery would be the fairest system.

Under the Administration proposal, a late September or early October lottery would determine the order of the 365 birthdates in the following year for calling up 19-year-olds.

Men with the first birthdates drawn would likely be drafted the following January and men with the last ones drawn would be likely to escape the draft.

There are only two alternatives but neither is as good, the administration officials told the subcommittee.

One—which Nixon has indicated he will establish on his own if Congress does not approve the lottery—would let young men know their highest draft susceptibility would be near their 20th birthdays.

But they wouldn't know until the draft order was announced a month in advance what their chances were of being called, the officials said.

They all but dismissed the third alternative, drafting the oldest 19-year-olds first, on grounds men born in January would be highly susceptible and men born in December would be almost draft exempt.

Killer Boasts Of Slayings In California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I like killing people," boasts a weekend killer who calls himself Zodiac and numbers five San Francisco Bay area persons among his victims.

Martin Lee, city chief of detectives, said Wednesday the handwriting on a letter acknowledging the killing of a San Francisco taxi driver appears identical to that in notes telling of four other slayings.

In each case the letters from the "Zodiac killer" have gone to newspapers and all have been marked with a crossed circle symbol like a rifle sight.

The latest started: "This is Zodiac speaking. I am the murderer of the taxi driver over by Washington St. and Maple St. last night, to prove this here is a blood stained piece of his shirt. I am the same man who did in the people in the North Bay area."

The enclosed piece of gray and white striped shirting matched the shirt of the cabby, Paul Stine, 29, fatally shot in his cab Saturday night.

Among earlier messages, sent to three different newspapers, were portions of a cryptogram which when deciphered said: "I like killing people because it is so much fun it is more fun than killing wild game in the forest because man is the most dangerous animal of all."

Soviet Flag Flies Over Chinese Soil

HONG KONG (AP) — The Soviet Union's flag is again flying over Chinese soil and many Russian visitors to the biannual trade fair in Canton have been warmly welcomed.

They said visitors to the one-month fair which opened Wednesday started with surprise at a Soviet flag that hangs prominently at the fair's site.

Soviets Bring On Ship To Earth

"The mission of Soyuz 6 has been successfully completed," Moscow Radio said.

The announcer reported that cosmonauts Georgy Shonin and Valery Kubasov were met by rescue teams as soon as they landed.

There was no indication when Soyuz 7 and Soyuz 8 would return to earth.

Soyuz 6 blasted off last Saturday at 2:10 p.m. Moscow time. The flight lasted 4 days, 22 hours and 42 minutes.

The spacecraft landed on the steppes of Kazakhstan about 340 miles from the launch site at Baikonur.

See Boost In Housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — New private housing begun during September registered the first monthly increase since February, the Commerce Department reported today.

Housing starts for the month were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,518,000 units, compared to the August rate of 1,383,000 units.

It was the first monthly upturn since a year-long decline began. The decline caused home builders and economists to worry that anti-inflation measures were taking an unwarranted toll from the housing industry.

For the six-month period ending in September, the average rate of starts was 12 per cent below the six-month period that ended last March, but about the same as the six month period a year ago.

In addition, the department's Census Bureau said building permits rose to 1,811,000 in September, compared to 1,245,000 in August. However, the figure was 1,393,000 in September 1968.

Shah Of Iran Starts U.S. Visit

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Shah of Iran left today for New York and Washington to hold his first official talks with President Nixon.

U.S. Losses In Viet War Remain At Lower Levels

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The total of American battlefield deaths in Vietnam last week remained near the lowest levels of the past three years, and enemy losses fell to their lowest point in a year. But South Vietnamese casualties climbed sharply.

The allied commands reported 82 Americans, 384 troops of the Saigon government and 1,687 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in action. Another 573 Americans and 1,000 South Vietnamese troops were reported wounded.

It was the third successive week that the total of American dead was less than 100. The total the week before was 64, the lowest in nearly three years, while government casualties that week were 209 killed and 681 wounded.

The weekly casualty reports reflected a trend in the past 2½ months of generally decreasing American battlefield deaths, while the total of South Vietnamese dead has outnumbered the Americans each week for the past five months.

U.S. spokesmen said this shows that South Vietnamese regulars and militiamen are taking over more of the fighting.

"The South Vietnamese are generally getting into the act," said one officer. "They are pursuing the enemy and taking on a good bit of the fighting."

The weekly casualty report raised the reported total of American battlefield deaths to 38,969 since Jan. 1961, and the total wounded to 254,847. The enemy dead reported in that period total 560,908.

The allied communiques today again reported only light, scattered action, most of it in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon and along the infiltration corridors running south from the Cambodian border toward Saigon.

South Vietnamese headquarters said government infantrymen and marines killed 28 enemy soldiers and smashed what appeared to be a Viet Cong propaganda center in three clashes in the delta. A spokesman said there were no government casualties in two of the fights and only light losses in the third. One government unit captured a television set, three amplifiers, a microphone, six loudspeakers, three reels of film and 11 sets of documents.

U.S. fighter-bombers killed 25 enemy soldiers and destroyed 19 bunkers in a strike 34 miles northwest of Saigon U.S. headquarters said.

Ashville Senior First Titlist From TVHS

A 17-year-old blue-eyed brownette, Vivian Sheets, not only walked off with top honors and the coveted title of "Miss Pumpkin Show Wednesday night" but bestowed new honors on her school as the first contestant from Teays Valley to ever win the title in the history of the school.

An enthusiastic audience of nearly 2,500 persons surrounded the W. Main St. platform for that magical moment when the 1969 queen and her court were selected by a panel of four judges.

Chosen attendants to the queen were Miss Circleville Patricia K. Arledge, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Arledge, 364 E. Union St. (1st Attendant) and Miss Logan Elm Suzzan Hildenbrand, daughter of Mrs. William Hildenbrand of Route 1.

Miss Pumpkin Show 1969, a senior at Teays Valley High School, is 5-feet 7-inches tall. She is a member of National Honor Society, GAA, student council, a varsity cheerleader and class vice president. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Sheets of Route 1, Ashville.

PETITE blond Patty Arledge, a senior at CHS, is not new to the Pumpkin Show scene. She and identical twin, Penny, who was her sister's most ardent supporter, have graced floats in Pumpkin Show parades for many years.

Logan Elm High School continued to be recognized as a producer of winning beauties when junior class representative, 16-year-old brunette Suzzan Hildenbrand, was honored as Second Attendant.

Following the Wednesday night selection and ceremony, the reigning queen immediately commenced her official duties as representative of the Circleville Pumpkin Show. Her first appearance as title holder was Thursday morning on Bob Braun's TV show from Cincinnati.

Gen. Yahya Khan Faces Election

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Gen. A. M. Yahya Khan, president of Pakistan, became the first voter to register today for a general election.

It will be the first general election in the country's history. In the past elections have been held in the provinces at different times.

Justice Abus Sattar, chief election commissioner, said in a broadcast that 46,000 officials will go from door to door, taking names across the nation in the registration drive.

Pakistan has an estimated 60 million men and women over 21 who are eligible to vote.

Soviets Bring On Ship To Earth

MOSCOW (AP)—Soyuz 6 and the two cosmonauts aboard it returned safely to earth today after testing several types of experimental welding techniques in space, Radio Moscow announced.

The announcement said the first of the three spacecrafts sent up last weekend made a soft landing in a "preset area" at 12:52 p.m.—5:52 a.m. EDT—100 miles northwest of Karaganda.

The two cosmonauts "feel fine," the announcement said. The return to earth of Soyuz 6 left two manned spacecrafts and five cosmonauts still in orbit. The welding experiment was the chief business announced so far for the troika flight. With it the Soviet spacemen sought to determine the best method of putting together the permanent space stations which the Soviets plan to assemble.

Early in the mass flight there had been speculation that two of the Soyuz spacecrafts would be joined together and left in orbit to become the world's first space platform. But prospects for this declined as the flight progressed, and the return of Soyuz 6 seemed a clear indication that construction of the space platform will wait for another flight.

"The mission of Soyuz 6 has been successfully completed," Moscow Radio said.

The announcer reported that cosmonauts Georgy Shonin and Valery Kubasov were met by rescue teams as soon as they landed.

There was no indication when Soyuz 7 and Soyuz 8 would return to earth.

Soyuz 6 blasted off last Saturday at 2:10 p.m. Moscow time. The flight lasted 4 days, 22 hours and 42 minutes.

The spacecraft landed on the steppes of Kazakhstan about 340 miles from the launch site at Baikonur.

The welding was done in a depressurized compartment of the ship in conditions of high vacuum, Tass said.

It was the first time orbiting spacemen have attempted to weld metals together.

The other two orbiting spacecrafts and the five cosmonauts manning them took no part in the welding experiments.

Tass said Valery Kubasov, flight engineer of Soyuz 6, switched on the welding equipment after one compartment of the two-room craft was depressurized, creating conditions similar to those in space.

Kored Spy Ring Reported Smashed

SEOUL (AP) — A North Korean spy ring operating in Seoul was smashed and all its 19 members arrested, the South Korean Central Intelligence Agency announced today.

Their arrests brought to 33 the number of North Korean espionage agents and South Korean collaborators captured in the past month, the CIA said.

North Viets Won't Free Any POWs

PARIS (AP) — The North Vietnamese told two American wives they won't release any American prisoners of war until all U.S. troops leave Vietnam, the wives said Wednesday night.
Sue Shuman and Martha Doss of Virginia Beach, Va., said the North Vietnamese advised them they could speed their husbands' release by demonstrating against the war.

Mrs. Doss and Mrs. Shuman, accompanied by the latter's mother-in-law, Mrs. B. C. Boeckeler, met for an hour and 15 minutes Wednesday with two members of North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks. They said they came away very disappointed.

"We wanted to obtain the release of all sick and wounded prisoners," Mrs. Shuman said, "but they told us we would have to wait until all the American troops are out of Vietnam and the war is over."

"We came here with fairly high hopes. We hoped to present the request for humanitarian reasons. They seemed to feel strongly that the prisoner thing is not humanitarian but political."

"Everytime we would bring up the humanitarian thing," Mrs. Doss said, "they would say if we wanted to get our husbands out, we would have to demonstrate."

"I would never demonstrate against my government," said Mrs. Shuman. "That would dishonor my husband."

Cmdr. Edwin Shuman and Lt. Cmdr. Dale Doss were shot down in North Vietnam and wounded March 17, 1968. Shuman was the pilot and Doss the navigator of a Navy A6 carrier plane.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Bill Dountz arrested five juvenile boys on charges of malicious destruction of property.
Frank Palmer, Williamsport, owner of the vacant house on Westfall-Kinderhook Road told Dountz the boys broke windows and sash with bricks.
Damage was estimated at $100.

High Spirits Bring Fines To Three Men
Spirits are high in Circleville during the Pumpkin Show as evidenced in Municipal Court Thursday. Only four new cases appeared before Judge Lamb, three of them for intoxication.
The "high spirited" gentlemen received a variety of fines.
Onno Wilson, Circleville, was charged $100; John Ratliff, West Virginia paid $25 and Robert Williams, 143 York St., forfeited $24 bond.

The only other case was a traffic violation by an out of state man, who was fined a total of $34 in fines and costs.

As usual, no details of the flight program were given.

The mission so far has been uneventful. Soyuz 6 entered its sixth day in orbit today, heading for a Soviet flight duration record at midday. Soyuz 7's in its fifth day in orbit and Soyuz 8 in its fourth.

Pope, Bishops Plan To Meet Apollo Crew

ROME (AP)—Pope Paul VI and the Roman Catholic Synod of Bishops take a brief holiday from theology today to meet the Apollo 11 astronauts.

Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins meet the Pope in a private audience, then go to the synod hall and show slides of Armstrong and Aldrin walking on the moon. A closed television circuit was set up to carry the show to other parts of the Vatican.

The 146 bishops attending the two-week conclave looked pleased, one bishop reported, when told during Wednesday's session of the astronauts' visit. But some of the 200 dissident priests holding a "shadow synod" in Rome drafted a communique saying it was unfortunate that Pope Paul had time to meet the astronauts but not to receive them.

Earlier in the week the pontiff rejected the priests' request for an audience to hear their version of how the Church should be reformed. The pontiff reportedly told them that the time was not opportune.

Within minutes after Armstrong took his first steps on the moon on July 20, Pope Paul sent the Apollo crew this message:

"We are close to you, with our good wishes and with our prayers. Together with the whole Catholic Church, Pope Paul VI salutes you."

After the visit from the astronauts, the bishops were expected to resume their discussion of collegiality, or the sharing by the bishops in the Pope's decisions.

Labor Chief Puts In Plug For Nixon's Welfare Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz told Congress today President Nixon's plan to wean people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls will strengthen the economy.

"This is not a proposal for a guaranteed minimum income," Shultz told the House Ways and Means Committee.

"Work is a major feature of this program," he said of Nixon's proposal for a family assistance minimum of $1,600 a year, with most family heads required to register for work or job training.

Shultz said a pioneer Labor Department project called the Work Incentive Program already has shown the idea will work.

The Secretary opposed demands of organized labor that the federal government become the "employer of last resort" for those who can't find jobs in the private economy.

He said Nixon's family assistance plan provides incentives both for recipients, who can keep the first $60 plus a graduated percentage of their earnings, and for the government.

Provision for child care centers also will provide an incentive for parents to go to work, he said. The present Work Incentive Program with 13,000 parents enrolled shows the concept is "very promising," Shultz said.

"Most encouraging of all is the fact that mothers are volunteering," he said.

Speaking against AFL-CIO proposals to make the government "employer of last resort," Shultz said:

"Government should assume a responsibility for maintaining a healthy economy that produces enough jobs, and commit itself to preparing people to fill those jobs. We want no work inventing system that offers a way around this basic responsibility."

He said the Labor Department estimates that 1.1 million of the 5 million family heads expected to be covered by the program will be required to register for work or training. Another 1.8 million of the working poor, to be brought under the program, will already have full-time jobs, he said. He also anticipated a substantial number of voluntary registrations for job training.

Shultz was the second Cabinet officer to take the stand this week in support of the $4.4-billion welfare overhaul.

Secretary of Welfare Robert H. Finch plugged for the program Wednesday.

Hanoi Wants Withdrawal Timetable

PARIS (AP) — Hanoi called on President Nixon today to announce his timetable for the withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge replied it is "up to your side to make the next move."

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy, just back from a lengthy visit to Hanoi, told the 38th plenary session of the Paris peace talks that U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers said last week President Nixon had a timetable for troop withdrawal in mind.

"If the Nixon administration really wants to end the war and already has a timetable for the total withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Vietnam, then why does it not dare make it public as requested by the American people?" he asked.

"It is not the announcement of the timetable of U.S. troops withdrawal which prolongs the war but it is because of his policy of war prolongation that President Nixon dares not announce the timetable of troop withdrawal."

"The Americans who participated in the Oct. 15 activities (Moratorium Day) understand they are contributing to the prompt cessation of the war.
They will continue to overcome obstacles of all kinds to go farther forward," he continued.

Lodge, reviewing the record of the talks since they began,
said Hanoi and the provisional revolutionary government (Viet Cong) have blocked the Paris talks by demanding preconditions for negotiations.

"Your side seems to believe that putting forth a proposal is the end, not the beginning, of real negotiations... You have brushed aside our efforts to find common ground between our respective positions."

Pope, Bishops Plan To Meet Apollo Crew

ROME (AP)—Pope Paul VI
and the Roman Catholic Synod of Bishops take a brief holiday from theology today to meet the Apollo 11 astronauts.

Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E.
Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins
meet the Pope in a private audience, then go to the synod hall and show slides of Armstrong and Aldrin walking on the moon. A closed television circuit was set up to carry the show to other parts of the Vatican.

The 146 bishops attending the two-week conclave looked pleased, one bishop reported, when told during Wednesday's session of the astronauts' visit.
But some of the 200 dissident priests holding a "shadow synod"
in Rome drafted a communique saying it was unfortunate that Pope Paul had time to meet the astronauts but not to receive them.

Earlier in the week the pontiff rejected the priests' request for an audience to hear their version of how the Church should be reformed. The pontiff reportedly told them that the time was not opportune.

Within minutes after Armstrong took his first steps on the moon on July 20, Pope Paul sent the Apollo crew this message:

"We are close to you, with our good wishes and with our prayers. Together with the whole
Catholic Church, Pope Paul VI
salutes you."

After the visit from the astronauts, the bishops were expected to resume their discussion of collegiality, or the sharing by the bishops in the Pope's decisions.

Labor Chief Puts In Plug For Nixon's Welfare Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz told Congress today President Nixon's plan to wean people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls will strengthen the economy.

"This is not a proposal for a guaranteed minimum income," Shultz told the House Ways and Means Committee.

"Work is a major feature of this program," he said of Nixon's proposal for a family assistance minimum of $1,600 a year, with most family heads required to register for work or
job training.

Shultz said a pioneer Labor Department project called the Work Incentive Program already has shown the idea will work.

The Secretary opposed demands of organized labor that the federal government become the "employer of last resort" for those who can't find jobs in the private economy.

He said Nixon's family assistance plan provides incentives both for recipients, who can keep the first $60 plus a graduated percentage of their earnings, and for the government.

Provision for child care centers also will provide an incentive for parents to go to work, he said. The present Work Incentive Program with 13,000
parents enrolled shows the concept is "very promising," Shultz said.

"Most encouraging of all is the fact that mothers are volunteering," he said.

Speaking against AFL-CIO
proposals to make the government "employer of last resort," Shultz said:

"Government should assume a responsibility for maintaining a healthy economy that produces enough jobs, and commit itself to preparing people to fill those jobs. We want no work inventing system that offers a way around this basic responsibility."

He said the Labor Department estimates that 1.1 million of the 5 million family heads expected to be covered by the program will be required to register for work or training. Another 1.8 million of the working poor, to be brought under the program, will already have full-time jobs, he said. He also anticipated a substantial number of voluntary registrations for
job training.

Shultz was the second Cabinet officer to take the stand this week in support of the $4.4-billion welfare overhaul.

Secretary of Welfare Robert H. Finch plugged for the program Wednesday.

We were sorry to hear that Ray Ridgway passed away in Berger Hospital on Thursday at the age of 79. The Ridgways moved to Circleville several years ago and the community felt a great loss on their leaving and now we are saddened by the news that this old and dear friend has passed away after an extended illness.

Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to Mrs. Ridgway and to son Bruce and family.

Miss Connie Lett and Miss Brenda Winner represent Westfall High School in the Miss Pumpkin Show Contest at Circleville this week.

There will be no school on Friday. Westfall District schools will dismiss classes early on Wednesday and Thursday this week for the Pumpkin Show.

Mothers Of Mongoloids Protest Threat To Research

WASHINGTON (AP) — An organization of mothers of Mongoloid children has mounted a national letter-writing campaign, protesting what it terms a threat to a promising research program against Mongolism.

The program is reported to be the only one of its type still in existence in the United States.

Mrs. Donald G. Wyman of Alexandria, Va., mother of a 4-year-old Mongoloid boy, and spokesman for the organization called "Mothers of Young Mongoloids," is leading the fight.

Mrs. Wyman said in an interview her group is concerned that a "proposed cut" in appropriations to the government's National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness. She said this would "effectively close down" a human experimental drug program against at least one aspect of Mongolism being conducted by Dr. Mary Coleman of Children's Hospital in Washington.

Mongolism is a malady characterized by serious mental retardation as well as by physical defects including poor muscle tone and coordination; a broad face; flat or stubby nose; and obliquely-set eyes.

Dr. Coleman declined to discuss details of her program, but it was learned authoritatively it involves use of an experimental drug-duplicating a natural chemical deficient in the brains of Mongoloid victims.

Mrs. Wyman said Dr. Coleman, like various others, is threatened with a cut in a House-approved appropriations bill currently pending before a Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash.

Mrs. Wyman said her organization sent messages to local organizations for retarded children throughout the country—and to other "friends"—suggesting they write to Magnuson and other members of his subcommittee.

Asked the results of the letter-writing campaign, Mrs. Wyman said her organization does not know yet how many letters have been written. But she said a check with the offices of Magnuson's committee members shows that "mail is running high—and all in favor of no cuts."

Such visits were restricted last May following a series of prison incidents and what Cardwell called "unstable conditions" at the huge downtown penitentiary.

Meat Substitutes

Food producers and processors have undergone a dramatic evolution in the last decade or two in response to improving technology and changing habits of the consumer.

A large portion of the grocer's shelves these days is stocked with food products which did not exist a relatively short time ago.

But all the changes to date become miniscule in the face of one of the most revolutionary concepts now working its way into the marketplace. Manufactured meats, which contain not a bit of real meat, are expected to reach the $10 million sales level by the end of the year, up from $3 million five years ago.

Virginia Knauer, special assistant to the President for consumer affairs, predicts that by 1980, more than 5 per cent of the meat and poultry market — or about $2 billion worth — will be served by meat substitutes.

Soybeans are the principal ingredient of the meat substitutes because they are inexpensive and protein-rich. Such foods have tremendous potentials for feeding the hungry in all parts of the world, but will the affluent North American put them on the shopping list?

The Oratorical Urge

It was a month after it convened before the 24th UN General Assembly was ready to get down to its agenda.

All that time the delegates — or those who showed up — sat through opening statements by representatives of 112 of the 126 members, a record stretch of oratory.

There may be some value in this annual rehash of national views. It gives every delegation a chance to express itself on any question — and the assembly a chance now and then to hear from a head of state or other influential figure.

It also gives every country a moment in the spotlight.

Aside from meager benefits, the ritual resembles the opening minutes of play, in which nothing much happens while the audience is being seated.

It does seem the assembly could get to cases more promptly if the urge to get to the microphone were not endemic among politicians the world over.

Philippine Pull-Out

In announcing his country's 1,500 troops in Vietnam would probably be withdrawn following the elections next month, Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos was attempting to appease his domestic critics who had been pestering him about withdrawal ever since he United States began to withdraw its own troops.

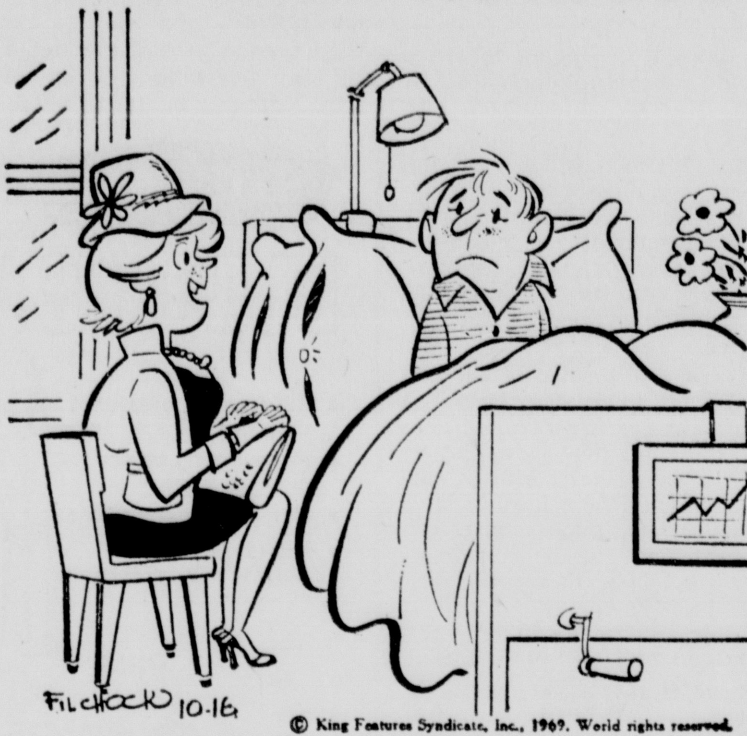

The decision, however, does nothing to aid President Nixon's withdrawal plans. Critics are bound to point to the absence of one more ally in Vietnam in pressuring for more U.S. concessions.

Not that the Philippine withdrawal will leave any serious deficiency. The troops are noncombatants who work in various civil capacities. But their withdrawal would be the first complete pullout of the few allies who elected to help the U.S. defend South Vietnam.

The other allies, South Korea, Australia, New Zealand and Thailand, so far have not indicated any similar withdrawal intentions. The Philippine action, however, could prompt them to do so.

Laff-A-Day

"One good thing—this gave me a chance to get the couch reupholstered."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

INTENT UPON BUYING a new ballpoint pen, a merchant tested several brands by writing "E Pluribus Unum" with them on a scratch pad. Finally, the impatient clerk behind the counter produced another tray of pens and suggested, "Maybe one of these will satisfy you, Mr. Unum."

Producer Jed Harris confesses that the future husband of a Hollywood star with a checkered marital career, cornered him one evening and said, "My fiancée admits she's still madly in love with you. Do you reciprocate her feelings?" "I absolutely worship the girl," Harris answered. "In that case," said the fiancée, his brow darkening, "why isn't it you who's marrying her instead of me?" "Marry her!" echoed Jed Harris, recoiling. "I'd shoot myself first!"

George Bernard Shaw, dismissed an interpretation of the role of Joan of Arc by a star he detested in a single sentence. "She," he wrote, "played Joan as if she were being burned at the stake when the curtain went up instead of when it went down."

A Tacoma husband inserted a classified ad in a local newspaper offering a one-hundred-dollar reward for the return—with no questions asked—of his wife's pet cat. "That's a mighty big reward for a cat," observed the clerk accepting the ad. "Not for this one," said the husband cheerfully. "I drowned it."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is it possible for the stomach and intestines to fall out of place and cause stomach pain?

Mr. N.V., Tennessee Dear Mr. V.: A condition does exist in which the organs of digestion fall from their normal place in the upper abdomen. This condition is known as "visceropexy."

In many cases, this displacement of the stomach and intestines may be due to the general body build. In other cases, there may be a general loosening of the attachments that hold these organs in their proper position.

The vague symptom of "stomach pain" may be caused by a wide variety of conditions. The fact that it is called a "stomach pain" rather than a pain in the abdomen shows how indefinite this symptom can be. The stomach and the abdomen are not the same. The stomach is an organ that lies in the abdomen and can be affected by infection, tumors, ulcers and even the abnormal displacement of its position.

The true diagnosis, rather than just the patient's suspicion of it, can be determined by X-ray examination. If this is substantiated, supportive belts, corsets and girdles may alleviate the symptoms, even though the basic condition is not cured.

In severe cases of visceropexy, surgery may be the best way of re-positioning the organs.

Are there more specific instructions for "take an oatmeal bath?" I feel silly when I take a doctor's precious time with a question like this.

Mrs. T.U.W., Kansas Dear Mrs. W.: There are many instructions besides "take an oatmeal bath" that may seem difficult to carry out. Obviously, the doctor assumes that a patient knows how to follow his orders unless the patient questions him.

Unless his orders are carried out correctly, there is a great chance that the treatments may not be completely effective. It therefore becomes absolutely necessary, rather than "silly," to fully understand them.

The oatmeal bath, or "colloid bath," is frequently used for patients with skin disorders and severe itching. Two cups of oatmeal are placed in a gauze bag, loosely tied. This is then placed in boiling water until it thickens. Now, a cup of ordinary baking soda is put into

Nixon's Worry Is Economy

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

President Nixon's most visible worry is Vietnam, and, by his defiance of the radicals who want to commit the U.S. to a quick "dumb Thieu" movement followed by a deal with a coalition government in Saigon, he will probably find himself embroiled with all the forces that sent Lyndon Johnson into retirement. He could take it too seriously; after all, it is a long time to election day in 1972, and the position of the North Vietnamese doesn't seem to be improving. Mr. Nixon still has time for patience.

Actually, his more immediate danger is the one of being whipsawed by contending groups in the economy. The labor unions are intransigent when it comes to wages; as long as prices go up at the rate of 3.5 per cent or more a year, wage contracts are bound to keep pace, or even to anticipate the next round of inflation. The fact that unemployment has recently gone to four per cent for the first time since October, 1967, will hardly deter the unions. As John L. Lewis observed long ago, you build a successful labor movement on delivering goodies to the employed, letting relief, or the union welfare fund or unemployment compensation, take care of the stragglers.

A little unemployment won't have any appreciable effect on the demand for goods and services and the availability of money and credit, which are the two factors that keep pushing prices skyward. For, at the very time that Washington was announcing the four per cent rate of unemployment, the Labor Department was issuing a report that there were 3.6 million wage and salary workers who were holding down two or more jobs. Moreover, husbands with two jobs sometimes have wives who also work, which adds up to three jobs per family.

It is the moonlighting plus the availability of consumer credit that keeps prices on a high plateau. The chains, so my shopping spies tell me, are following an equivocal practice when it comes to offering bargains. When they are pushing lamb or chicken at a discount, the price of staples will be set at a higher rate than usual. The idea is that a captive audience, so to speak, will not quit the store with only one thing in the shopping bag; there isn't time or energy to make a round of all the stores.

We are a nation of salesmen, and salesmen are not stupid. Furniture dealers who are used to buying from the factories on 120-day terms find themselves squeezed for working capital when the factories insist on a settlement within thirty or sixty days. But there are ways of mitigating the squeeze. What you do is sell to the customer from a floor model on a deal with a factory which will guarantee quick delivery of the product. This means less onerous inventory problems, and enables you to do more work with less money. It does not result in price cuts across the board.

Meanwhile, advertising agents

and large corporations who can get away with postponing the settlement of their accounts for 120 or even 180 days are making money on the high rates of interest that any spare cash can command.

Between the housewives, who are angry every time they buy a loaf of bread, and the labor leaders who want raises for their men, Nixon is in danger of getting it from both ends. Eliot Janeway, a keen analyst, keeps insisting that the Administration won't find a way out of the morass until it adopts credit controls. But I wouldn't put it past the ingenious American to find ways around that: the example of the hotel impresarios of the Virgin Islands, who have found they can get space for their guests without putting up building capital simply by making lease-back deals with condominium owners, was mentioned in this column a few weeks ago, and doubtless similar dodges will be discovered in other regions of the American economy.

If the Vietnamese War trickles off, the rages of the Vietnam Moratorium and the Students for a Democratic Society will hardly continue to sway many votes. The war will continue to be a miserable thing for parents with sons in the jungle, but they won't be sufficiently numerous to count at the polls. On the other hand everybody has to live in the economy, and if Nixon can't find a way of placating both the housewives and the AFL-CIO he will be in deep trouble long before 1972.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Wisdom never travels as fast as knowledge and so the brokerage business today is in a stew about something the Greeks understood many centuries ago.

"Know thyself," Plato and others are reputed to have stated, and it is presumed that brokers have assimilated this bit of wisdom. Perhaps they should have recalled a commentary years later by another Greek, Menander, who said:

"In some ways the saying 'Know thyself' is not well said. It were more practical to say, 'Know other people'."

The "other" people in this instance are customers, for the courts have told brokers they can be held liable for losses incurred by securities buyers who obviously go in over their heads. Briefly, this is the situation:

In 1963 an Indiana company, Dobich Securities Corp., opened an account with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith. Later the company was granted credit and became an unusually big trader. It was a poor trader also.

A trustee for the financially distressed Dobich firm claims that the trading resulted in a loss of about $465,000. He sued Merrill Lynch, alleging among other things that the brokerage house knew Dobich was financially unstable.

In opening the account for Dobich, the trustee claimed, Merrill Lynch failed to obtain financial references and statements so as to know just what type of customer it was dealing with.

Merrill Lynch replied that it couldn't be held liable, but a U.S. district court didn't agree. It denied a move by the brokerage house for a summary judgment, and an appeals court backed up the district court.

This week the issue reached the U.S. Supreme Court and was turned away. The highest court declined to review the case, thus leaving standing the lower court decision. The case now is scheduled to be tried by the district court.

The argument centers around a well known but sometimes poorly applied rule of the New York Stock Exchange, Rule 405 which applies to the subject of "Diligence as to Accounts." It begins:

"Every member organization is required through a general partner or an office who is a holder of voting stock to:

"Use due diligence to learn the essential facts relative to every customer, every order, every cash or margin account accepted or carried by such organization and every person holding power of attorney over any account accepted or carried by such organization."

That language is clear and strong. Note the presence of "every" five times and an all-inclusive "any" as well. No room for exceptions with language of that sort.

One wonders, however, if Rule 405 can be applied as diligently as its wording dictates, for Wall Street has plenty of trouble as it is trying to clear the paperwork that accompanies ordinary trading activities. The implications of this case are large, for there are always big losers in securities who will be tempted to recoup their losses in the courts. Many of these losers are going to take a long second look at Rule 405.

If this rule means what it appears to mean, it is a hard one to live up to. And depending on the outcome of court action, it could be a very costly one to break.

Bishop Sheen

Quits Position At Rochester

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Pope Paul VI has accepted the resignation of the Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen as bishop of the Rochester Roman Catholic Diocese, it was announced Wednesday.

Bishop Sheen, 74, will be succeeded by the Rt. Rev. Joseph L. Hogan, 53, pastor of St. Margaret Mary's Church in Rochester.

No reason for the retirement was announced immediately. Bishop Sheen was installed as the Rochester bishop in December 1966.

Bishop Sheen is widely known as a teacher, author and for years conducted religious programs on television and radio.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Every age has its own symbols.

Among the symbols of America's past that come readily to mind are the squirrel gun, the coonskin cap, the cigar store Indian, the cracker barrel and the pot-bellied stove. Each is surrounded by the romantic aura of a bygone time.

What will be the symbols of our own day when it has become dust in time's warehouse? Probably the hippie look, for one. And inevitably for another — the miniskirt. Perhaps the bikini, the vodka martini and the ball point pen? It might be that this period may be recalled in the future chiefly for its gaps — such as the generation gap; the credibility gap and the balance of payments gap.

Other likely nominees are "the pill" and the credit card. But as a symbol of the modern American business world, one worth considering as a candidate for immortality, how about the office water cooler?

No one so far has created a great ode to it, and no one has erected a monument in its everlasting honor. But when you consider what it has done for mankind it certainly deserves the fame accorded to an earlier symbol of the farm—the old oaken bucket that hung in the well.

As the cracker barrel and the pot-bellied stove in the oldtime general store served as the forum of rural communities, the water cooler has become the social center of the business office.

Its job of dispensing water is ordinarily minor to other roles it plays.

Where does the junior executive go to meet the secretary and make a whispered date? To the water cooler. Where does the office hypochondriac go to gush his many medicines? To the water cooler. Where do the office white collar peasants foregather to tell the latest joke or trade the newest gossip? At the water cooler.

The old-fashioned cooler consisted of a big inverted glass jug that poured its contents down over a chunk of ice that rarely lasted the day. A fellow seeking to escape his desk could waste half an hour there, looking busy, while the water dripped drop by drop into a paper cup held under the faucet.

Everyone dreamed of some time putting a bottle of gin in the old-fashioned water cooler, but somehow it never seemed to happen.

Your new water cooler, like most of man's latter day gadgets, has become vastly more complicated. It is a sleek monster with shiny stainless metal sides, and it often takes a new employee two days to find whether it works by hand or by foot.

How important is the office water cooler?

"Like the pencil sharpener and the paper-towel machine in the washroom, it is a vital key to office morale," said a veteran personnel manager. "When they all work, everything's o.k."

"But if the washroom machine runs out of towels, the pencil sharpener breaks down, and the water cooler won't work, you've got a revolution on your hands."

"I'd say, however, that the water cooler is the biggest safety valve. Unless it functions, everybody seems to go a little bit mad."

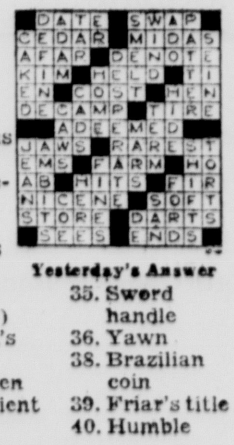

They kick it, scream out old grudges at each other, and foam all over the place. Some go out of their minds so far they even storm into the boss and demand a merit raise."

Yes, though it is usually taken for granted, the office water cooler deserves far more than a mere footnote in any history of our oddball time.

PM Has Little Time For Liberalists

BRANKAN, South Africa (AP) — "I have less time for liberalists than for any other group of people on earth," Dr. J. D. Vorster, brother of the prime minister, told an anti-communist rally here. He defined "liberalists" as liberals who unwittingly pave the way for communism.

Vorster is a national leader of the powerful Dutch Reformed Church and chairman of the National Council to Combat Communism.

Meat Substitutes

Food producers and processors have undergone a dramatic evolution in the last decade or two in response to improving technology and changing habits of the consumer.

A large portion of the grocer's shelves these days is stocked with food products which did not exist a relatively short time ago.

But all the changes to date become minuscule in the face of one of the most revolutionary concepts now working its way into the marketplace. Manufactured meats, which contain not a bit of real meat, are expected to reach the $10 million sales level by the end of the year, up from $3 million five years ago.

Virginia Knauer, special assistant to the President for consumer affairs, predicts that by 1980, more than 5 per cent of the meat and poultry market — or about $2 billion worth — will be served by meat substitutes.

Soybeans are the principal ingredient of the meat substitutes because they are inexpensive and protein-rich. Such foods have tremendous potentials for feeding the hungry in all parts of the world, but will the affluent North American put them on the shopping list?

The Oratorical Urge

It was a month after it convened before the 24th UN General Assembly was ready to get down to its agenda.

All that time the delegates — or those who showed up — sat through opening statements by representatives of 112 of the 126 members, a record stretch of oratory.

There may be some value in this annual rehash of national views. It gives every delegation a chance to express itself on any question — and the assembly a chance now and then to hear from a head of state or other influential figure.

It also gives every country a moment in the spotlight.

Aside from meager benefits, the ritual resembles the opening minutes of play, in which nothing much happens while the audience is being seated.

It does seem the assembly could get to cases more promptly if the urge to get to the microphone were not endemic among politicians the world over.

Philippine Pull-Out

In announcing his country's 1,500 troops in Vietnam would probably be withdrawn following the elections next month, Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos was attempting to appease his domestic critics who had been pestering him about withdrawal ever since he United States began to withdraw its own troops.

The decision, however, does nothing to aid President Nixon's withdrawal plans. Critics are bound to point to the absence of one more ally in Vietnam in pressuring for more U.S. concessions.

Not that the Philippine withdrawal will leave any serious deficiency. The troops are noncombatants who work in various civil capacities. But their withdrawal would be the first complete pullout of the few allies who elected to help the U.S. defend South Vietnam.

The other allies, South Korea, Australia, New Zealand and Thailand, so far have not indicated any similar withdrawal intentions. The Philippine action, however, could prompt them to do so.

INTENT UPON BUYING a new ballpoint pen, a merchant tested several brands by writing "E Pluribus Unum" with them on a scratch pad. Finally, the impatient clerk behind the counter produced another tray of pens and suggested, "Maybe one of these will satisfy you, Mr. Unum."

Producer Jed Harris confesses that the future husband of a Hollywood star with a checkered marital career, cornered him one evening and said, "My fiancée admits she's still madly in love with you. Do you reciprocate her feelings?" "I absolutely worship the girl," Harris answered. "In that case," said the fiancée, his brows darkening, "why isn't it you who's marrying her instead of me?" "Marry her!" echoed Jed Harris, recoiling. "I'd shoot myself first!"

George Bernard Shaw, dismissed an interpretation of the role of Joan of Arc by a star he detested in a single sentence. "She," he wrote, "played Joan as if she were being burned at the stake when the curtain went up instead of when it went down."

A Tacoma husband inserted a classified ad in a local newspaper offering a one-hundred-dollar reward for the return—with no questions asked—of his wife's pet cat. "That's a mighty big reward for a cat," observed the clerk accepting the ad. "Not for this one," said the husband cheerfully. "I drowned it."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is it possible for the stomach and intestines to fall out of place and cause stomach pain?

Mr. N.V., Tennessee Dear Mr. V.: A condition does exist in which the organs of digestion fall from their normal place in the upper abdomen. This condition is known as "visceroptosis."

In many cases, this displacement of the stomach and intestines may be due to the general body build. In other cases, there may be a general loosening of the attachments that hold these organs in their proper position.

The vague symptom of "stomach pain" may be caused by a wide variety of conditions. The fact that it is called a "stomach pain" rather than a pain in the abdomen shows how indefinite this symptom can be.

The stomach and the abdomen are not the same. The stomach is an organ that lies in the abdomen and can be affected by infection, tumors, ulcers and even the abnormal displacement of its position.

The true diagnosis, rather than just the patient's suspicion of it, can be determined by X-ray examination. If this is substantiated, supportive belts, corsets and girdles may alleviate the symptoms, even though the basic condition is not cured.

In severe cases of visceroptosis, surgery may be the best way of re-positioning the organs.

Are there more specific instructions for "take an oatmeal bath?" I feel silly when I take a doctor's precious time with a question like this.

Mrs. T.U.W., Kansas Dear Mrs. W.: There are many instructions besides "take an oatmeal bath" that may seem difficult to carry out. Obviously, the doctor assumes that a patient knows how to follow his orders unless the patient questions him.

Unless his orders are carried out correctly, there is a great chance that the treatments may not be completely effective. It therefore becomes absolutely necessary, rather than "silly," to fully understand them.

The oatmeal bath, or "colloid bath," is frequently used for patients with skin disorders and severe itching. Two cups of oatmeal are placed in a gauze bag, loosely tied. This is then placed in boiling water until it thickens. Now, a cup of ordinary baking soda is put into a tub of comfortable tepid water. The oatmeal bag is then swished around in the bath until the water becomes murky. The bag itself can be used as a washcloth over the irritated surfaces.

There are other similar baths that use bran, cornstarch or bicarbonate of soda. If your doctor prescribes them, be sure to ask for specific instructions, including the length of time to stay in the bath and the temperature of the water.

Nixon's Worry Is Economy

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

President Nixon's most visible worry is Vietnam, and, by his defiance of the radicals who want to commit the U.S. to a quick "dump Thieu" movement followed by a deal with a coalition government in Saigon, he will probably find himself embroiled with all the forces that sent Lyndon Johnson into retirement. He could take it too seriously; after all, it is a long time to election day in 1972, and the position of the North Vietnamese doesn't seem to be improving. Mr. Nixon still has time for patience.

Actually, his more immediate danger is the one of being whipsawed by contending groups in the economy. The labor unions are intransigent when it comes to wages; as long as prices go up at the rate of 3.5 per cent or more a year, wage contracts are bound to keep pace, or even to anticipate the next round of inflation. The fact that unemployment has recently gone to four per cent for the first time since October, 1967, will hardly deter the unions. As John L. Lewis observed long ago, you build a successful labor movement on delivering goodies to the employed, letting relief, or the union welfare fund or unemployment compensation, take care of the stragglers.

A little unemployment won't have any appreciable effect on the demand for goods and services and the availability of money and credit, which are the two factors that keep pushing prices skyward. For, at the very time that Washington was announcing the four per cent rate of unemployment, the Labor Department was issuing a report that there were 3.6 million wage and salary workers who were holding down two or more jobs. Moreover, husbands with two jobs sometimes have wives who also work, which adds up to three jobs per family.

It is the moonlighting plus the availability of consumer credit that keeps prices on a high plateau. The chains, so many shopping spies tell me, are following an equivocal practice when it comes to offering bargains. When they are pushing lamb or chicken at a discount, the price of staples will be set at a higher rate than usual. The idea is that a captive audience, so to speak, will not quit the store with only one thing in the shopping bag; there isn't time or energy to make a round of all the stores.

We are a nation of salesmen, and salesmen are not stupid. Furniture dealers who are used to buying from the factories on 120-day terms find themselves squeezed for working capital when the factories insist on a settlement within thirty or sixty days. But there are ways of mitigating the squeeze. What you do is sell to the customer from a floor model on a deal with a factory which will guarantee quick delivery of the product. This means less onerous inventory problems, and enables you to do more work with less money. It does not result in price cuts across the board.

Meanwhile, advertising agents

and large corporations who can get away with postponing the settlement of their accounts for 120 or even 180 days are making money on the high rates of interest that any spare cash can command.

Between the housewives, who are angry every time they buy a loaf of bread, and the labor leaders who want raises for their men, Nixon is in danger of getting it from both ends. Eliot Janeway, a keen analyst, keeps insisting that the Administration won't find a way out of the morass until it adopts credit controls. But I wouldn't put it past the ingenious American to find ways around that: the example of the hotel impresarios of the Virgin Islands, who have found they can get space for their guests without putting up building capital simply by making lease-back deals with condominium owners, was mentioned in this column a few weeks ago, and doubtless similar dodges will be discovered in other regions of the American economy.

If the Vietnamese War trickles off, the rages of the Vietnam Moratorium and the Students for a Democratic Society will hardly continue to sway many votes. The war will continue to be a miserable thing for parents with sons in the jungle, but they won't be sufficiently numerous to count at the polls. On the other hand, everybody has to live in the economy, and if Nixon can't find a way of placating both the housewives and the AFL-CIO he will be in deep trouble long before 1972.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Wisdom never travels as fast as knowledge and so the brokerage business today is in a stew about something the Greeks understood many centuries ago.

"Know thyself," Plato and others are reputed to have stated, and it is presumed that brokers have assimilated this bit of wisdom. Perhaps they should have recalled a commentary years later by another Greek, Menander, who said:

"In some ways the saying 'Know thyself' is not well said. It were more practical to say, 'Know other people!'"

The "other" people in this instance are customers, for the courts have told brokers they can be held liable for losses incurred by securities buyers who obviously go in over their heads.

Briefly, this is the situation: In 1963 an Indiana company, Dobich Securities Corp., opened an account with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith. Later the company was granted credit and became an unusually big trader. It was a poor trader also.

A trustee for the financially distressed Dobich firm claims that the trading resulted in a loss of about $465,000. He sued Merrill Lynch, alleging among other things that the brokerage house knew Dobich was financially unstable.

In opening the account for Dobich, the trustee claimed, Merrill Lynch failed to obtain financial references and statements so as to know just what type of customer it was dealing with.

Merrill Lynch replied that it couldn't be held liable, but a U.S. district court didn't agree. It denied a move by the brokerage house for a summary judgment, and an appeals court backed up the district court.

This week the issue reached the U.S. Supreme Court and was turned away. The highest court declined to review the case, thus leaving standing the lower court decision. The case now is scheduled to be tried by the district court.

The argument centers around a well known but sometimes poorly applied rule of the New York Stock Exchange, Rule 405 which applies to the subject of "Diligence as to Accounts." It begins:

"Every member organization is required through a general partner or an office who is a holder of voting stock to:

"Use due diligence to learn the essential facts relative to every customer, every order, every cash or margin account accepted or carried by such organization and every person holding power of attorney over any account accepted or carried by such organization."

That language is clear and strong. Note the presence of "every" five times and an all-inclusive "any" as well. No room for exceptions with language of that sort.

One wonders, however, if Rule 405 can be applied as diligently as its wording dictates, for Wall Street has plenty of trouble as it is trying to clear the paperwork that accompanies ordinary trading activities. The implications of this case are large, for there are always big losers in securities who will be tempted to recoup their losses in the courts. Many of these losers are going to take a long second look at Rule 405.

If this rule means what it appears to mean, it is a hard one to live up to. And depending on the outcome of court action, it could be a very costly one to break.

Today is Thurs., Oct. 16, the 289th day of 1969. There are 76 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1790, Congress established the District of Columbia as the permanent seat of the U.S. government.

On this date: In 1793, Queen Marie Antoinette of France was executed. In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte landed in the island of St. Helena as an exile.

In 1859, the Kansas abolitionist, John Brown, staged a raid on Harper's Ferry, Va.

In 1964 Communist China announced it had tested its first atomic bomb, becoming the world's fifth nuclear power.

Ten years ago: The French National Assembly voted overwhelming approval of a plan by President Charles de Gaulle to settle the Algerian rebellion.

Five years ago: The Labor party won an election in Britain, and Harold Wilson became prime minister.

One year ago: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin arrived in Prague and signed a treaty permitting Soviet troops to remain in Czechoslovakia.

PM Has Little Time For Liberalists

BRAKPAN, South Africa (AP) — "I have less time for liberalists than for any other group of people on earth," Dr. J. D. Vorster, brother of the prime minister, told an anti-communist rally here. He defined "liberalists" as liberals who unwittingly pave the way for communism.

Vorster is a national leader of the powerful Dutch Reformed Church and chairman of the National Council to Combat Communism.

Operation Intercept Proves Mixed Success

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

NOGALES, Mexico (AP) — The U.S. customs inspector at the border crossing station had trouble unscrambling the mumbled words of a youth who had just walked over from Mexico.

"What's in your mouth?" the officer finally asked.

There was no immediate reply, but after some prodding, the youth, an Army private in civilian clothes, spat out a small, moist rubber object.

It was a contraceptive device holding nine grains of heroin, enough for two fixes, in the jar-narcotics vigil the United States has ever put up along the 2,000-mile Mexican border. For nearly three weeks customs officers carefully combed thousands of vehicles leaving Mexico at 38 border crossing stations.

Non-Whites Banned
EAST LONDON, South Africa (AP) — The Posts and Telegraphs department of segregationist South Africa has banned non-whites from using rural party telephone lines. Confirming this, Assistant Director of Telephones, J. F. van Rooyen said non-whites left in charge by absent farmers are liable to use the farmhouse telephone. Party line subscribers in the past often complained their conversations were disrupted by abusive language. He said no action would be taken if non-whites used farm telephones in an emergency or in the normal course of the day's duties.

Ground radar and aerial and jeep patrols at unguarded border areas were intensified. Even a marijuana-sniffing dog was pressed into duty at San Ysidro, Calif.

Conductors Compete In Berlin Test
BERLIN (AP) — During the Berlin Festival of the Arts this fall, a new event will be a competition for young conductors.

Sponsored by the Herbert von Karajan Foundation, 35 finalists, all under 35, from 14 countries, will compete. Most are winners of earlier contests held in New York, Stresa, Barcelona and Liverpool. Medals, money from $1,250 to $2,500 and contracts with a German record company and two concerts are prizes for the three winners.

Operation Intercept Proves Mixed Success

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ Associated Press Writer
NOGALES, Mexico (AP) — The U.S. customs inspector at the border crossing station had trouble unscrambling the mumbled words of a youth who had just walked over from Mexico.
"What's in your mouth?" the officer finally asked.
There was no immediate reply, but after some prodding, the youth, an Army private in civilian clothes, spat out a small, moist rubber object.
It was a contraceptive device holding nine grains of heroin, enough for two fixes, in the jargon of the modern narcotics cultists.

A 20-year-old Phoenix, Ariz., girl died in a motel room here; authorities blamed an overdose of morphine. She had driven here for the fix.
On a lonely desert road some 70 miles northwest of here, near Ajo, Ariz., a U.S. Border Patrol roadblock snared two cars with marijuana totaling 800 pounds. Customs officers suspected the load had been parachuted to a spot in the desert by airborne smugglers.
All this occurred during Operation Intercept, the sharpest narcotics vigil the United States has ever put up along the 2,000-mile Mexican border. For nearly three weeks customs officers carefully combed thousands of vehicles leaving Mexico at 38 border crossing stations.

Ground radar and aerial and jeep patrols at unguarded border areas were intensified. Even a marijuana-sniffing dog was pressed into duty at San Ysidro, Calif.
"Intercept" has been superseded by Operation Cooperation, a joint effort by the two countries to combat narcotics production and traffic.

The unilateral U.S. effort had come under sharp criticism from Mexican and American leaders who claimed it was harming relations between the two countries and obstructing border commerce that totaled $1.15 billion last year.

During Operation Intercept's 21 days, customs agents turned up 3,202 pounds of marijuana; 78 pounds of hashish, a more potent version of marijuana; 15 pounds of peyote, a hallucinogenic cactus; 3 1/2 pounds of heroin; 74,366 pills classified as "dangerous drugs" and three vials of a supposed aphrodisiac. They also seized smaller quantities of morphine, cocaine, demarol, codeine, Percodan—all dangerous drugs if used nonmedically.

Figures for a comparative 1968 two-week period with which to measure Intercept's effectiveness are not available. A veteran customs officer says, however, the operation discouraged drug traffic.
There's no known way of determining how much got through undetected. U.S. and Mexican authorities feel that present control systems are capable of halting only a fraction of the U.S.-bound traffic.

Miss Rella Renee Abbott Bride Of Charles R. Lones

MRS. CHARLES RICHARD LONES

Miss Rella Renee Abbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Trenton Abbott of Amanda and Mr. Charles Richard Lones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Lones, Route 2, Amanda, were united in marriage 7:30 p.m., Oct. 4 in the Amanda St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Amanda by Dr. Andrew Schilling (former pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Lancaster, Ohio) now of London, Ohio.

For her wedding day, Miss Abbott chose a dress of white karate cloth embellished with imported vienne lace. The dress had a scooped neckline, three quarter length sleeves and a detachable Watteau train. She chose to wear an imported silk illusion veil fastened to a headband accented with vienne lace and pearls. The bride wore an heirloom gold locket, a gift from her maternal grandmother. She carried her Eastern Star Bible with two white rose buds and one red rose bud surrounded by baby's breath.

The theme from Romeo and Juliet was played by the organist, Mr. Roger Gobel, uncle of the groom.

Serving the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. James R. Abbott of Canal Winchester, sister-in-law of the bride. Her rose colored dress was a floor length Juliet style, with bishop sleeves and accented at the waistline by a moss green bow with floor length streamers. She wore a moss green lace halo cap and carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations with moss green streamers.

Mrs. Ray Lehr of Quantico, Va., and Miss Denise Miller of Washington C. H. served their cousin as bridesmaids, both were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

This Year's Flower Show Meets All Expectations

By RUTH MONTELIUS

This year's Flower Show has really met all expectations and is one to see. Don't miss it.

The fact we did not have a killing frost early as we have had in the past several years has added to the lovely display. Mrs. Guy Campbell has provided us as usual with an outstanding show.

This lady is surely to be complimented for the many years of service she has devoted to the success of the flower shows at the Pumpkin Show. And I hear rumored that this is her last. We all owe her a standing ovation! Her efforts have added to our local Pumpkin Festival to make it the International known affair it is today.

WINNER — The theme "Something Enjoyed from Abroad" is the winning entry for Wednesday's flower show. Mrs. Bernard Savy, 930 Circle Drive is the arranger of note who won the top prize this year. It is an arrangement with weathered driftwood and red celosia and gladiola.

BEST BY TEST — Judges in Wednesday's pumpkin pie baking contests were two of the Columbia Fuel Gas Co.'s "Betty Newtons", Nancy Mann (left) and Sandy Burnard. The smiles on their faces are an indication of the quality of pies entered in the contest.

To get back to this year's flower exhibit, there were many lovely awards given this year. Brehrer Greenhouses contributed the Junior Achievement Award given to the best entry for horticulture.

Lou Deel gave the award for the Best of Show in the Artistic Arrangement division. T. K. Brunner and Son gave the award for best arrangement in the Junior division. The Pumpkin Show Committee gave awards in the House Plant Section.

The winners of these various honors were:

Horticulture, Mrs. Dean Sells with a Chrysanthemum 'F' and over; Junior Achievement Award with her arrangement "Visit To The Zoo." Linda Davies; Best Flowering Plant in the house plant division, Mrs. Rosemary Dunkle with her Jerusalem Cherry; best foliage plant in the house plant division, Mrs. Ned Harden and finally Mrs. Bernard Savy won in the Artistic Division with her entry in "Something Enjoyed From Abroad."

The fine judges this year were Mrs. Herbert Rollins, Mrs. Harold Elliot and Mrs. Don Merry. They really did a skillful and swift job. This is really a very difficult thing to do and requires knowledge and effort that the layman does not realize. We are all ready to criticize but don't stop to think what background is necessary for a qualified judge.

Among other things to enjoy are the sales table the Pickaway Garden Club has at the show. There are many bargains and artistic offerings to be had. Dried arrangements and wall plaques are just a few things you can buy. Understand Pauline Savy has contributed her artistic ideas here. This is really an opportunity to own something worthwhile.

The educational table that Mrs. John Eshleman and Mrs. Luther Bower have contributed their efforts to is very interesting. It is a display of bird's nests and bird pictures.

The rest of the winners in the Flower Show were:

Class 1-A, Roses H.T. — 1. Mrs. James Shea; 2. Mrs. Richard Shaw. Class 1-B Grandiflora — 1. Mrs. James Shea; 2. Handy Hatfield.

This Year's Flower Show Meets All Expectations

By RUTH MONTELIUS
This year's Flower Show has really met all expectations and is one to see. Don't miss it.

The fact we did not have a killing frost early as we have had in the past several years has added to the lovely display Mrs. Guy Campbell has provided us as usual with an outstanding show.

This lady is surely to be complimented for the many years of service she has devoted to the success of the flower shows at the Pumpkin Show. And I hear rumored that this is her last. We all owe her a standing ovation! Her efforts have added to our local Pumpkin Festival to make it the International known affair it is today.

WINNER — The theme "Something Enjoyed from Abroad" is the winning entry for Wednesday's flower show. Mrs. Bernard Savey, 930 Circle Drive is the arranger of note who won the top prize this year. It is an arrangement with weathered driftwood and red celosia and gladiola.

BEST BY TEST — Judges in Wednesday's pumpkin pie baking contests were two of the Columbia Fuel Gas Co.'s "Betty Newtons", Nancy Mann (left) and Sandy Burnard. The smiles on their faces are an indication of the quality of pies entered in the contest.

To get back to this year's flower exhibit, there were many lovely awards given this year. Bremer Greenhouses contributed the Junior Achievement Award given to the best entry for horticulture.

Lou Deel gave the award for the Best of Show in the Artistic Arrangement division. T. K. Brunner and Son gave the award for best arrangement in the Junior division. The Pumpkin Show Committee gave awards in the House Plant Section.

The winners of these various honors were:

Horticulture, Mrs. Dean Sells with a Chrysanthemum 1' and over; Junior Achievement Award with her arrangement "Visit To The Zoo," Linda Davies; Best Flowering Plant in the house plant division, Mrs. Rosemary Dunkel with her Jerusalem Cherry; best foliage plant in the house plant division, Mrs. Ned Harden and finally Mrs. Bernard Savey won in the Artistic Division with her entry in "Something Enjoyed From Abroad."

The fine judges this year were Mrs. Herbert Rollins, Mrs. Harold Elliot and Mrs. Don Merry. They really did a skillful and swift job. This is really a very difficult thing to do and requires knowledge and effort that the layman does not realize. We are all ready to criticize but don't stop to think what background is necessary for a qualified judge.

Among other things to enjoy are the sales table the Pickaway Garden Club has at the show. There are many bargains and artistic offerings to be had. Dried arrangements and wall plaques are just a few things you can buy. I understand Pauline Savey has contributed her artistic ideas here. This is really an opportunity to own something worthwhile.

The Blue And Gold

Majorette, Drum Major Honored With TVHS Band

By DEBBIE IRWIN

The 50 member Teays Valley marching band has been very busy practicing. They will play at all football games and two parades and a concert at the Pumpkin Show this fall.

They worked hard for Teays Valley's homecoming show, the "In" show, with such songs as: "Rock in Our Time," "Soul Step," "The Horse" and "Hawaii Five-O."

Members of the marching band are:

Mike Combs, announcer; Ralph Willoughby, drum major; Linda Sanderson, head majorette; Kathie Younklin, Debbie Richards, Marlene Richard, majorettes;

Susie Green, Sandy Welch, flutes; Sandy Cook, piccolo; Pam Brown, Brian Valentine, Sharon Kuhlwein, Susan Miller, Karen Peters, Judy Rife, Nancy Fausnaugh, Roger Hott, Paula Null, Wanda Helsel, Betsy Finch, Deb Helser and Jill Trego, clarinets;

Brenda Pobst, Diane Burgoon, Susan Reese, Lois Sayre, Becky Willoughby, Diana Pobst and Melinda Lawless, saxes; Willie Bolender, Larry Diehl, Patty Pennington, Mike Schebeck, Tim Carpenter, Mike Ramey and Vickie Gochenour, cornets; Jim Ramey, Dennis Brown, Janice Wilson, Dave Schebeck, trombones; Edith Schamehorn, Jessie Hosler, Linda Kuhlwein, Sherry Pennington, baritones; Mark Pfeiffer, Don Peters, tubas; Bob Higgins, Debbie Ramey, Bob Morris, Tony Manzi and Debbie Irwin, percussion.

By PAM BROWN

Drum major at Teays Valley this year is Ralph Willoughby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Willoughby, Commercial Point. Ralph is a senior enrolled in the general course, and his favorite subject is bookkeeping.

Activities include Drama Club, band and school radio news reporter.

He lists his hobbies as buying records and bowling.

Ralph's plans for the future are undecided.

The only senior majorette this year is Kathie Younklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Younklin, Orient. Kathie is enrolled in the general course, and her favorite subject is senior mathematics.

Activities include G.A.A. and concert band and hobbies of swimming and water skiing.

After graduation, Kathie plans to pursue her modeling career.

Schiff Named TV Senior

MIKE SCHIFF

By KAREN WHITE

Mike Schiff, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Schiff, lives at Route 2, Ashville. Mike is enrolled in the general courses and Agri-Business.

Mike is a center on the Teays Valley football team and president of the Future Farmers of America.

Sports are Mike's hobby. His favorite singer is Wilson Pickett; his favorite food is steak.

After graduation, he plans to attend Wilmington College.

Basketball Trials Will Begin Soon

By PAM BROWN

A meeting last week informed all prospective basketball players of the rules and regulations for all teams that will be in effect this year.

Boys wishing to try out are welcome to do so, providing they maintain passing grades in all subjects and submit to a physical examination.

Practice will start Nov. 1. The first game will be Nov. 21, when the Vikings play host to Columbus North.

KATHIE YOUNKIN

Teacher, Student New To School

WANDA HELSEL

By DEBBIE IRWIN

Wanda is a sophomore at Teays Valley High School. She came to Teays Valley from Monmouth Regional High School, Eatontown, New Jersey. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Helsel.

Her hobbies are listening to records, singing, and pets. Her favorite subject is biology. She is in both the marching and concert bands.

When asked her opinion of Teays Valley she said, "I like Teays Valley."

By EDDIE RUMER

One of the thirteen new teachers at Teays Valley for the 1969-70 school year is Ray Nocker. He is 23 years old and lives at Route 1, Ashville.

Mr. Nocker graduated from Teays Valley in 1964 and then went on to four years at Ohio State University. He is now teaching vocational agriculture.

His hobbies are photography and swimming. He likes to travel.

His comment on Teays Valley is, "I like the school as much now as I did when I came here as a student. I wouldn't teach here if I didn't."

He also stated that "the students at Teays Valley have a better opportunity to go on to better things than do students from many other schools."

By JUDY RIFE

On Sept. 16 the Teays Valley FTA had its monthly meeting at the high school. The officers for the 1969-70 term took their offices.

The new officers are: president, John Hines; vice president, Sandy Scotchorn; treasurer, Ed Combs; secretary, Pam Bush; news reporter, Judy Rife; historian, Susan Miller and chaplain, Connie Collins.

After a short business meeting, Howard Weaver, guidance counselor, spoke to the group about how to choose a college and what steps must be taken before applying to the college.

Early Start Can Lead To 'Early Finish'!

DEAR ABBY: Our 15-year-old, Brenda, is our problem. All she thinks about are boys. Brenda is very mature for her age and has been wearing a 38 bra since she was 14.

Last semester she failed two subjects so we sent her to summer school to make them up. Well, she had such a "groovy" summer she failed both subjects again.

This year we have laid down the law to her. Instead of letting her stay out until 11 p.m. on school nights and 1 a.m. on week-ends, we told her she has to be in the house by 10 p.m. on school nights and 12:30 on week-ends. Now she has her dates pick her up at 3:30. Isn't this too early for a girl to be going out? Brenda says since she has to be in by 11 she has to get an early start! What is your opinion?

BRENDA'S PARENTS
DEAR ABBY: I think Brenda is getting an "early

NEW YORK (AP) — The three major television networks devoted most of their early evening news programs to Wednesday's Moratorium Day activities. But the special programs arrived late when the viewing audience was likely to be comparatively small—NBC and CBS at 11:30 and ABC's wrapup after midnight.

The late hour did give the network news staff a chance to put the pros and cons of the day into some balance and they also were able to use material gathered late in the day.

Generally, however, the late shows contained little that was not covered in more compact form in the early news periods. In the early evening David Brinkley kicked off NBC's news program by emphasizing that the demonstrations calling for U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam were "big but not enormous . . . substantial displays but not enormous." Maybe, but they certainly looked huge in the accompanying pictures.

Walter Cronkite of CBS, as well as Brinkley and ABC's Frank Reynolds, repeatedly pointed out that "not all were in favor" and each devoted some time to the opposition. But mostly the programs concentrated on the protests.

Especially apt seemed Howard K. Smith's quotation from Harry S. Truman that it was characteristic that "the critics be heard more than those who would support policy," followed by cautioning that the day of demonstrations and counter-demonstrations "has not told us which is the nation's will."

Cronkite with Harry Reasoner presided over CBS' late night roundup. Frank McGee handled the anchorman's job for NBC. The shows surveyed the more dramatic moments of the day—the Washington march toward the White House, the candle-lit gathering of crowds in mid-Manhattan after dark.

Both networks rounded up spokesmen for various viewpoints. Neither, however, was able to answer the question in most people's minds—how large a segment of public opinion the protesters represent.

NBC's "Music Hall" in a radical and not particularly happy change of pace, presented an hour of live coverage of the Country Music Association awards from Nashville, Tenn.

With Ernie Ford as master of ceremonies, it turned out to be a sort of Johnny Cash festival—the singer won half the awards, including "Entertainer of the Year" and "Male Vocalist of the Year."

Like most awards shows, it dragged along through the fussing with envelopes and heartfelt thanks. This one had the added disadvantage of being confined to a very special field with a very special body of devotees.

Unique Mountain-Climbing School Draws 600 People

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — "Go climb a rock," reads the sign at the foot of the sheer granite walls. And about 600 people have—enticed into climbing this year by a unique mountaineering school.

Operated by the park's concession company, the school offers a $10, one-day beginner's course, good enough to get a novice up a good-sized hill.

But after that, a climber can qualify for more complicated classes—if he has the stamina—and eventually can look forward to scaling some of the cliffs in the national park where the highest rises a sheer 3,000 feet above the valley. In 1958 the sheer rock walls of Yosemite's El Capitan were first climbed and one of the men who did it, Wayne Merry, a 38-year-old former park ranger, now directs the climbing school.

His customers—who bring their own lunch and boots—are a varied lot.

"They usually know what they're getting into," Merry said.

Most have heard about the school and came to Yosemite planning to sign up, Merry said. The majority come from the professions; most are fairly young, including a number of college students, and about half are women.

After an introductory lecture, Merry takes beginners to a cluster of rocks. There they learn to handle the climbing rope and how to climb.

Their course lasts most of the day—from 9 a.m. to about 4 p.m., including the lecture. The rest is practice.

Merry says many graduates of the basic school go on to the $15 one-day intermediate course, and he also arranges advanced training in more difficult climbing. He even takes promising students on guided climbs in the valley.

Beginners' lessons don't equip

the neophyte to climb any of the Yosemite big walls, but he does learn the fundamentals.

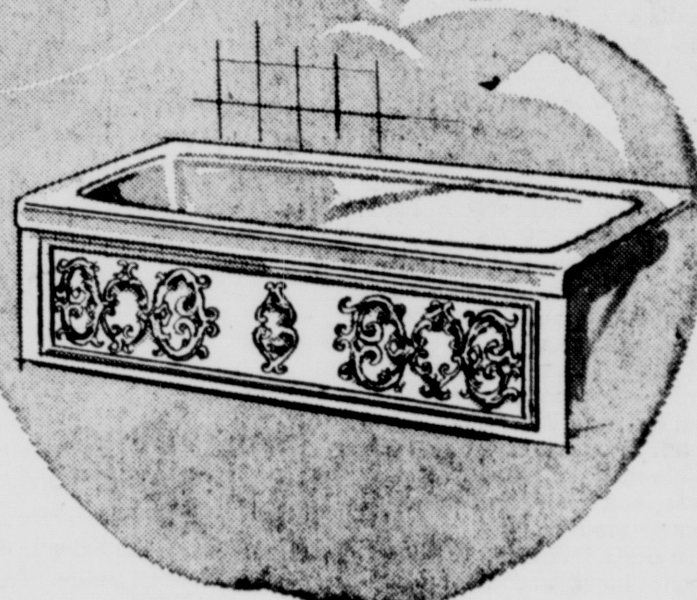

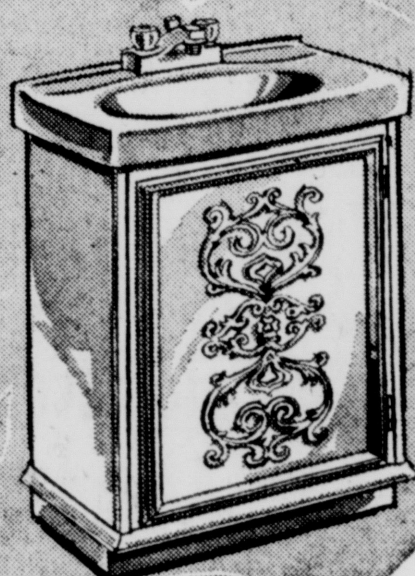

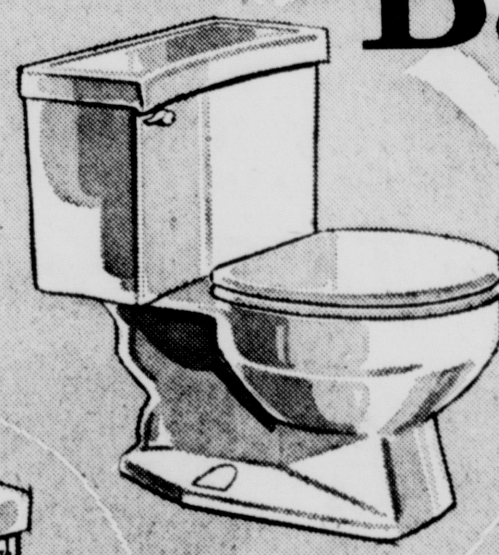

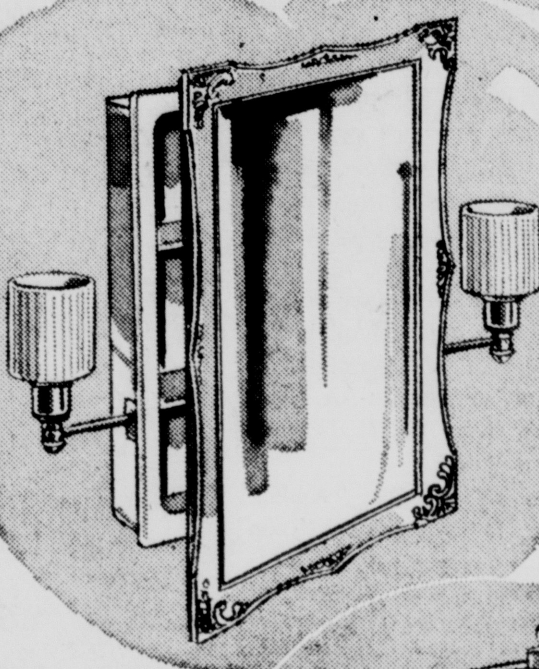

"We are trying to steer a course toward making a person able to follow an experienced leader on fairly severe climbs," Merry said.

Unique Mountain-Climbing School Draws 600 People

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — "Go climb a rock," reads the sign at the foot of the sheer granite walls. And about 600 people have—enticed into climbing this year by a unique mountaineering school.

Operated by the park's concession company, the school offers a $10, one-day beginner's course, good enough to get a novice up a good-sized hill.

But after that, a climber can qualify for more complicated classes—if he has the stamina—and eventually can look forward to scaling some of the cliffs in the national park where the highest rises a sheer 3,000 feet above the valley. In 1958 the sheer rock walls of Yosemite's El Capitan were first climbed and one of the men who did it, Wayne Merry, a 38-year-old former park ranger, now directs the climbing school.

His customers—who bring their own lunch and boots—are a varied lot. "They usually know what they're getting into," Merry said.

Most have heard about the school and came to Yosemite planning to sign up, Merry said. The majority come from the professions; most are fairly young, including a number of college students, and about half are women. After an introductory lecture, Merry takes beginners to a cluster of rocks. There they learn to handle the climbing rope and how to climb.

Their course lasts most of the day—from 9 a.m. to about 4 p.m., including the lecture. The rest is practice.

Merry says many graduates of the basic school go on to the $15 one-day intermediate course, and he also arranges advanced training in more difficult climbing. He even takes promising students on guided climbs in the valley.

Beginners' lessons don't equip

the neophyte to climb any of the Yosemite big walls, but he does learn the fundamentals. "We are trying to steer a course toward making a person able to follow an experienced leader on fairly severe climbs," Merry said.

Amazing Mets Seek 4th Win, Crown

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets went into today's fifth game of the World Series on the threshold of their first world championship—and nothing about the amazing Mets is more amazing than the way they finally got both feet on the doorstep to the throne room. For the implausible champions of the National League got there Wednesday on a double lost in the sun, a punt that didn't roll 10 feet and a wild throw toward first. That combi-

Weaver Denies Giving Cause For Ejection

NEW YORK (AP) — The World Series, with prestige and a big pot of gold on the line, is the goal of all major league baseball teams. It's the annual showcase of the sport. But for Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles, managing a World Series game is the same as managing during the regular season or even in an exhibition. "Just because it's a World Series, I can't change," Weaver said. "I manage the way I manage." The comment was

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Coach Murray Warmath, not at all gasping with the toughest game of the season coming up Saturday, slyly promises the best from his Minnesota Gophers against the Ohio State Buckeyes. Warmath, close friend of Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes, still is looking for his first victory in his 16th season as Minnesota football coach. Still, he's optimistic as the Gophers, 0-3-1, prepare for defending national champion and No. 1 ranked Ohio State. "We're going to play a good

Ohio U Faces Go-For-Broke Situation With Redskins

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University faces a "go for broke" situation at Oxford Saturday when it puts hopes of a third consecutive Mid-American Conference title on the line against Miami University. It should be the feature game in a full slate of MAC contests. The conference moves into mid-season with league leading Toledo playing host to fifth place Western Michigan while Bowling Green State University, in third place, plays at Kent State, the cellar team. Miami's Jim Bengala could be a Redskin dark horse on a team loaded with backfield talent. He set a school passing record last week against Marshall University when he replaced the injured Kent Thompson. Bengala completed 18 of 29 pass

Wes Unseld Leads Bullets To Win Over Chicago, 98-93

Unseld, Rookie of the Year and the Most Valuable Player in the NBA last season, scored only 10 points Wednesday night but eight of them came in the last period to guide Baltimore to a come-from-behind 98-93 opening success over the Chicago Bulls. The New York Knicks, meanwhile, came up with a closing rally to sidetrack Cincinnati 94-89 and spoil the NBA coaching

CHS Harriers Top TV, 19-50, In Dual Meet

The Circleville High School Cross Country team won its sixth meet of the season over Teays Valley on the Tiger course Monday, 19-50. Circleville runners placed first through tenth with the exception of the second spot which went to TV. Senior harrier, Phil Pike, topped first place over the two mile course in 10:11. Smith of Teays Valley took second 22 seconds later, and Circleville's Bill McGowen captured third in 10:48. Craig Dresbach, Joe McGowen, Paul Cupp, Gary Spangler, Will Fanning, and Pete McDaniels all finished in the top ten for Circleville. The Tigers are now 6-4 for the season. They host Groveport at 4:30 p.m. today at the fairgrounds.

nation gave the Mets a 10th inning run and a 2-1 victory over Baltimore's befuddled Orioles. So the Mets, who turned the baseball world upside down this year by making the final team standings look topsy-turvy, took a 3-1 edge over the heavily favored Orioles and the opportunity to wrap up the Series today in front of Shea Stadium's banner-bearing fans. Once holders of the world record for ineptness, the Mets have made the amazing transition to the top on a combination of solid pitching, timely hitting and plays that have provoked the gag-line that "God is a Mets fan." Look what happened in that almost unbelievable 10th inning when the Orioles handed them the keys to the throne room. It began when catcher Jerry Grote sent a short fly to left that was ticketed for an out. "I thought the ball was hit harder than it was," said left fielder Don Buford, "and I broke back to keep from giving up an extra base hit. Then I lost the ball in the glare and didn't pick it up until it got above the sun." By that time, only shortstop Mark Belanger had a shot at the falling fly as he raced toward the point of impact with his back to the plate. But the ball fell beyond the reach of his outstretched glove as Grote stood on second base. Rod Gaspar went into run for Grote and Al Weis was given an intentional walk. At this juncture, it was time for some strategy, and it's possible that the loss of Manager Earl Weaver—in the third inning he became the first manager ejected from a World Series game in 34 years—may have contributed to what followed. That may never be known. What is known is that coach Billy Hunter, who took over for Weaver, ordered pitcher Dick Hall to issue an intentional walk to Al Weis and then brought in Pete Richert to pitch to pinch hitter J.C. Martin. Martin's orders from Manager Gil Hodges were simply: Bunt—and keep it down the first base line away from Brooks Robinson, the Orioles' brilliant

Tigers And Blue Lions In Crucial Grid Clash

Circleville's Tigers will be at home to the Washington Court House Blue Lions Friday night in a crucial South Central Ohio League clash. Circleville is 3-0 in the league and Court House is 2-1 with a loss to Wilmington their only blemish. Washington is primarily a running ball team but can throw. The Blue Lions have a solid defense and give ground

Browns Hurt By Injuries; Face Steelers

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll is convinced that the Cleveland Browns have the material for a great team, but somebody forgot to tell him about injuries. "They have all the weapons—the personnel a good defense, a versatile offense," Noll said from Pittsburgh while the Browns' leading pass receiver, Paul Warfield, limped away from practice Wednesday and possibly out of the lineup for Saturday night's home game with the Steelers. Warfield, who ranks seventh in the National Football League with 17 pass catches for 277 yards, suffered the injury when he collided with offensive tackle Monte Clark. He isn't expected to practice today or Friday. If he can't play Saturday, rookie Fair Hooker, a 6-2, 190-pounder from Arizona State, is expected to start in his place. Two other Browns regulars are still recuperating from injuries suffered earlier in the year. Defensive tackle Jim Kinnick, sidelined with a broken leg, may discard his crutches today, start running in a week, and return to action next month. Defensive cornerback Ben Davis is taking part in workouts but isn't expected to be ready for game action for several weeks as he recuperates from knee surgery.

Gophers Hope To Give OSU Fight

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Coach Murray Warmath, not at all gasping with the toughest game of the season coming up Saturday, slyly promises the best from his Minnesota Gophers against the Ohio State Buckeyes.

Warmath, close friend of Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes, still is looking for his first victory in his 16th season as Minnesota football coach.

Warmath, of course, is keeping quiet about his game plans for Saturday afternoon's contest at Memorial Stadium in Minneapolis against the team that has scored 157 points and allowed 35.

Warmath said Minnesota played its best game of the season in a 17-7 loss to Indiana last Saturday in the Big Ten opener but still made too many mistakes to win. Those were the lowest number of points the Gophers have allowed this year, but also the least they have scored.

Boog Powell is the only Oriole with more than two hits. Frank Robinson is 2-for-13, Brooks Robinson 1-for-15, Paul Blair and Don Buford 2-for-16, and Dave Johnson has been blanked in 12 trips.

Arnie Palmer Faces Tough Sahara Clash

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer faced one of the greatest challenges of his fantastic career today when he set out in the first round of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

It could be that his golfing future hangs in the balance. Can he come back? Now 40 and a nonwinner for more than a year, can the game's greatest attraction once again recapture the magic that made his name a household word?

Sahara could provide the answer.

Many observers thought Palmer was through when an arthritic right hip forced him out of the PGA Championship at Dayton in August. He had just struggled in with a pain-racked 82, highest round of his professional career. His game was in tatters, his age advancing and his health questionable.

But Palmer vowed he would be back. He didn't say when, because at the time he didn't know. He just went home to Latrobe, Pa., for rest and treatment of the hip ailment that has plagued him for three years.

But he said he would be back — and he is.

But the question remains: will he be the dynamic, driving force that put the word "charge" in golf's dictionary, the man who won a record four Masters Championships, or will he be the pale imitation who struggled and strained over the last 12 months?

"I feel pretty good," said Palmer, looking relaxed and jovial. "But you never know until you get out there."

He has had practically no serious work for this tournament and only one practice round, three days ago. But he did shoot a career low 60 a few weeks ago in a casual round over the Latrobe Country Club course.

"I think I've got a few years left," Palmer said. "Life begins at 40—or at least I'm going to try to convince myself that it does."

New Vehicle Under Test

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP) — The Twister, a new cross between a Jeep and a tank, will get its first usage by the Army this fall, a Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. spokesman said today.

The eight-wheel vehicle can attain a speed of 65 miles an hour and give a smooth ride over the roughest terrain, Lockheed said.

The eight independently moving wheels enables it to move speedily and smoothly in contrast to the slow, rough ride in track vehicles like tanks and to "go over almost anything," a Lockheed spokesman said.

The Twister, prior to delivery, was tested in the rice paddies of the Sacramento Valley, the snows of the Sierra, the Nevada desert and the Santa Cruz Mountains and met all tests of that varied terrain, Lockheed said.

Two Twisters were delivered to the Army within the last month and the third is in production. A contract for the three vehicles, developed by Lockheed, was signed a year ago.

The girl was discovered by a guard at the state prison-hospital complex. The kidnaper sped off in a car when the guard approached to see why it was parked in an unauthorized area.

The kidnaper was believed to be driving a station wagon belonging to Beth Peters, operator of the Peter Pan Nursery School in Arroyo Grande where Kristine worked part-time.

Mrs. Peters and a cook, Matilda Visser, were left bound in a closet Tuesday morning when the man kidnapped Kristine and took the car.

Robert Allen Harvey, 31, was sought by the FBI on a warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid confinement.

Blonde, 17, Is Rescued; Man Sought

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A pretty 17-year-old blonde nursery school assistant says a kidnaper kept her terrified during a 300-mile ride up the California coast by brandishing two knives.

"I was scared to death," said miniskirted Kristine Anderson, found bound and gagged but uninjured Wednesday night in a Little League ball park on the grounds of a state hospital.

The kidnaper was believed by police to be a man who escaped Saturday while being held in the Santa Maria jail for investigation of two Pasadena holdups and a robbery-kidnap in Albuquerque, N.M.

"He had two kitchen knives, a big one and a small one," Kristine told newsmen.

The girl was discovered by a guard at the state prison-hospital complex. The kidnaper sped off in a car when the guard approached to see why it was parked in an unauthorized area.

The kidnaper was believed to be driving a station wagon belonging to Beth Peters, operator of the Peter Pan Nursery School in Arroyo Grande where Kristine worked part-time.

Hatfield Announces '69 Window Display Winners

The winners of the 1969 edition of the annual window display competition were announced today by chairman, Darrell Hatfield.

The Gardenwood Garden Club topped first place in this year's "Pumpkin Dumpty" in the Penny's window on West Main St. The theme centers around fall and the story book character of Humpty Dumpty and his wall.

Second place was awarded to the Circleville Sewing Center for their "Memories of the Early Days of the Pumpkin Show." This display is completely antique and could bring back many fond memories of the "greatest free show's" beginning.

Burton's Jewelry window.

FOURTH place went to the Women's Fellowship of the Church of the Brethren in Fitzpatrick's window on East Main St. The theme for the display is "God's Yielding Earth." This display shows a farm girl ready to harvest the fruits of God's earth in prayer.

Other entries in the 13 window field included the Monrovia Garden Club in the Moore's store window with "This Way to the Park" with a theme honoring Circleville's own Ted Lewis.

The Capital Finance Corporation played host to two displays this year. The local chapter of the Easter Seal Society displayed "punkin things" in honor of their 50th Anniversary. The display was complete with a two layer cake.

The Roundtown Chapter of the National Secretaries Association occupied the other window. The window showed the different facets of the association.

"There's an Old Spinning Wheel in the Parlor" was the theme of the display in the Tradition House Window on West Main St. The display is completely antique.

The Herald participated in the competition this year with a Pumpkin Show to the Moon theme. "From the Greatest Show on Earth to the Greatest Show on the Moon" depicted man on the moon and man at the Pumpkin Show.

PACK 170, sponsored by the Trinity Lutheran Church, also had a moon theme. The display in the City Loan window shows how Cub Scouts grow into spacemen with an "Astronauts from Little Cubs Grow" title.

The Pickaway County Historical Society, in their window on West Main, showed the "Pumpkin Lullaby."

Merriman's Barber Shop showed a "mini display" with the Great Pumpkin coming to the Pumpkin Show while Goeller's Paint Store displayed home grown Manchurian chestnuts and paw paws on East Main.

Brisk Chill Covers Much Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A brisk October chill hung onto most of the nation outside the Deep South today and temperatures dipped once more to wintry levels in parts of the Rockies.

Rain or snow were added unpleasantly in sections of the Far West and in much of the Midwest.

A new arrival of cooler weather triggered rain from Washington to California and into Nevada. Traveler warnings remained in effect in the Sierra Nevada of California where heavy snow closed some passes.

A storm system in the northern Midwest scattered light rain into half a dozen states and, with a cold front on its wake, dumped snow into portions of the Dakotas, Minnesota and northern Wisconsin.

Two inches of snow whitened Rochester, Minn., during the night. Snow was mixed with rain in some areas.

Temperatures fell into the middle and lower 40s along much of the Eastern seaboard, but skies were generally clear. Light rain chilled parts of the southern Appalachians.

The mercury fell to 11 above zero at Laramie, Wyo., well before daybreak. At the same hour, Key West, Fla., registered 80.

Former Local Man Promoted By Flickinger

HAROLD MILLER

William J. Cutter, resident vice president and division manager of the S. M. Flickinger Co. Inc. has announced the appointment of Harold Miller as superintendent of warehousing and transportation for the Columbus, Ohio Division.

Miller began his career with Flickingers in October 1951 as a warehouseman in the frozen food section. During the next seven years he worked in every section of the warehouse. In 1958 he was promoted to warehouse supervisor. His 18 years experience in all phases of warehouse operation should prove a valuable asset.

A native of Circleville, he resides at 2617 Howey with wife Helen and son Gregg.

The S. M. Flickinger Co., Inc. wholesale food distributors, operate in the tri-state area of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, with headquarters in Buffalo, New York. The local division supplies Super Duper and Red & White Food Stores, and other independent supermarkets in a 70 mile radius of Columbus.

Society Members Local Cancer Attend Meet

Mrs. Georgia Walker and Charles Baker represented Pickaway County at the 1969 Annual Meeting of the Ohio Division of the American Cancer Society.

The sessions were held in Columbus on October 11 and 12. Three guest speakers were featured. They were Dr. Robert Samp, assistant professor of surgery at the tumor clinic of the University of Wisconsin Medical School spoke at the dinner meeting on Saturday, October 11. Mike Pekarek, Chief of the Speakers Bureau of the National Cash Register Co. of Dayton, Ohio, spoke at the opening session on Saturday morning.

Featured speaker at the closing session on Sunday, was Cleo Dawson, Ph. D. a psychologist, lecturer and popular TV personality.

In addition to taking up the business of the Ohio Division, the meeting provided training conferences and workshops for cancer society volunteers.

Immediately upon returning from her coronation, Queen Victoria reportedly doffed her ceremonial robes — to give her dog a bath.

Ike Dollar Debate Triggers Dispute On Silver Content

WASHINGTON (AP) — The subject before the House was a new silverless dollar coin honoring the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But before debate was over Wednesday, there was talk about wampum coming back as currency and the use of coins which could double as lock nuts and fishing lures.

These suggestions came from Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, a conservative who argued the House was completing "the degradation and debasement of the metallic currency of this country."

But the House cast all this aside in voting 257-65 for a new copper and nickel-clad dollar coin with Eisenhower's likeness on one side and a design emblematic of the symbolic Apollo 11 Eagle landing on the moon" on the other.

Only hours before, the Senate had passed its own version of the bill which specified that the first 300 million of the coins be 40 per cent silver.

The differences are subject to resolution by a House-Senate conference committee and then final approval by both branches.

The House bill also would let the Treasury Department remove silver from the Kennedy half dollars, now 40 per cent silver, by 1971. There is no similar language in the Senate bill, or anything about the Apollo 11 design.

Gross several times during the debate pulled strings of brightly colored beads from his pockets, dangled them before the House and suggested something like that might be on the horizon.

"This would just be funny money," Gross said of the proposed silverless coins. "I don't know how long it will be before the Banking and Currency Committee brings in a bill calling for the use of wampum."

And, if that doesn't do the trick, I expect them to approve a bill for what the Narragansett Indians called wamoumbeag, which is cheap wampum."

Other possibilities, Gross said, would include washers and lock nuts "and at least farmers could use them on tractors" or a stainless steel coin which is bright "and could double as a fishing lure."

But the House paid little attention to the views of Gross or Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, whose amendment to put 40 per cent silver in the new coin was turned down, 73-45.

The Nixon administration has opposed efforts, led by mining states, to put silver in the new coin. The House bill would authorize a new dollar coin made up of 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel.

Hatfield Announces '69 Window Display Winners

The winners of the 1969 edition of the annual window display competition were announced today by chairman, Darrell Hatfield.

The Gardenwood Garden Club topped first place this year with "Pumpkin Dumpty" in the Penny's window on West Main St. The theme centers around fall and the story book character of Humpty Dumpty and his wall.

Second place was awarded to the Circleville Sewing Center for their "Memories of the Early Days of the Pumpkin Show." This display is completely antique and could bring back many fond memories of the "greatest free show's" beginning.

Logan Elm's student council took third place in this year's event with "Injun Summer." The window shows a painted Pilgrim background with assorted gourds and pumpkins in the foreground. It is in

Burton's Jewelry window.

FOURTH place went to the Women's Fellowship of the Church of the Brethren in Fitzpatrick's window on East Main St. The theme for the display is "God's Yielding Earth." This display shows a farm girl ready to harvest the fruits of God's earth in prayer.
